

Hello! My name is Devam Sprowls, and I am an aspiring actor who's enjoyed performing since childhood. To me, acting is a special career, one that requires talent, but if talent is met, something that can bring joy to oneself and to others. Acting is meant to be a fun and entertaining business, one of a group of people who willingly join the industry to express their personas through scripts of plays, TV shows, movies, and other forms of performance.

I want to join the entertainment industry for the same reason. To share my passion and express my personas with not only my fellow actors, but with those who may watch the performance. I want to leave my mark upon this world knowing that I brought entertainment and joy to a significant number of people. My wish is for people to also join this field feeling the same way as I, a sense of love for the stage and a love for the people who it's all meant for.
