I have a passion for acting. Anyone that knows me would describe me as shy, possibly quiet and kind. When I get the opportunity to be a brat or funny girl or anything dramatic, I love to create and become a different person and bring the character to life.

I just started growing my knowledge of this craft and love to learn! I have enjoyed and been challenged every step of the way. I have taken several classes and will continue with private lessons as I feel that people can learn something new every day. There are a lot of kids that want to act. What makes me unique is my interest in feedback and improving and my desire to have fun in everything I do.

I look forward to the possibility of working together to create memorable and amazing entertainment experiences.

Warm regards,

London Fischer
