

Hello. I am Amaris Wilson, a twelve-year-old student from Chaparral, New Mexico. I was born in Rogers, Arkansas, and grew up in Kilgore, Texas, until I moved to New Mexico. I am considered a smart, sassy, and determined person. I love a challenge and have been told I am very expressive. Unfortunately, I have also been told I do not have a poker face and can be very overdramatic. I am artistic and an excellent athlete as well.

I would love to be in the entertainment industry because acting is my biggest dream. I have wanted to be an actor for as long as I can remember, ever since my first school play, Patricia and the Wolf, a reenactment of The Boy Who Cried Wolf. The director changed the name in the title of the play from Peter to Patricia because I was selected to play the lead. I knew that I had a knack and love for acting and thought how wonderful it would be to have a job doing what I love. Another reason I would love to be in the entertainment industry is that I want to be able to make people happy with the movies I perform in. I want to be able to make people feel transported into the movie and help them escape their day-to-day lives. It would bring me joy to give people joy through my acting.
