

Dear Sir or Madam,

My name is Braeden Wright, I'm nine years old, and I live in a small community called Fleming, Ga that is just outside of Savannah, Ga. But, the place that I truly consider home is New Orleans, La where I was born. I love New Orleans because it has the largest Mardi Gras celebrations in America and the Saints were great when I was born. I like being a part of Mardi Gras because the whole community comes together to see the artistic floats and enjoy time together in the streets. I also love NOLA because of the rich music and art all around the city. Maybe the artistic parts of New Orleans are why I am also interested in arts in my own life.

I have to thank my best friend since pre-K, Goldie Johnson, for introducing me to theater arts. One summer we were hanging out, and out of the blue Goldie's mom asks if we would like to do a musical at the summer camps of Savannah Children's Theatre. I said, "Sure!" and the rest might be history. I have been in 9 plays at the children's theatre since then, including my role that I'm starting rehearsals for now, Chip in Beauty and the Beast. I love being in this industry because I love entertaining people and making people laugh, so I am seriously considering acting as a long term career, starting now.

Peace out,

Braeden
